

Brexit

Brexit, it's the word used to explain the output of the United Kingdom by the European Union and is a contraction of two words: "Britain" (UK) and "exit" (output). Leave the victory with 51.9% change completely the situation, with the peoples of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland that have to be considered, exit ratified by the EU, non-EU and with the new British Government that will face the discontent of the other nations of the Kingdom, Scotland of all, it already raised for independence and return to Europe. We have been well identified 5 major consequences:

1) Brexit: political consequences

The first consequence of Brexit and abandonment of the United Kingdom to the European Union is a government crisis. David Cameron has announced his resignation as prime minister and leader of the Conservative Party. To replace it probably will be a new conservative administration, considerably more anti-EU. If not carefully managed, this process could damage relations between London and other European capitals.

2) Brexit: impact on markets

The Brexit will make the financial markets more sensitive to the vulnerability of the euro zone. The pound has already fallen to a minimum of 30 years and the world's stock markets have burned 2 trillion in a single day. The markets of the individual countries of the euro area will be put under scrutiny.

3) Brexit: consequences for Eurosceptic parties

The far-right parties, especially in Western Europe, will take a lot of strength from Brexit. French National Front, whose leader Marine Le Pen, is under scrutiny ahead of presidential elections next year. And 'unlikely to win, but the result will be historic. The extreme right probably will not be able to rise to power in each EU country but it will be strong enough to dominate the political debate, on the left and right, and thus influence government actions.

4) Brexit: consequences on relations with the EU

The EU will be under pressure to draw up proposals for further integration. The so-called "Five Presidents Report" last year will not be enough. If it is true that economic and monetary union is out of reach, the French and the Germans will be engaged to present the plans for greater cooperation in areas such as defense and internal security.

5) Brexit: consequences for the entire European Union

The Brexit alter the EU's internal balance. With Britain out of the seven European countries without euro alone will account for 15 percent of Europe's economic output, in contrast to over 30 per cent with Britain inside. The Brexit increase the political and economic supremacy of Germany in Europe.
